Cascade Café History

I've always loved games and I have been making board games for a bit. I don't want to talk about it too much since I'm new to the Facebook app game market, but that is how I started with Cascade Cafe. I spent quite some time to come up with the level gameplay. Most of the level design came from trying to connect the levels together and finally came up with a design I liked. I've worked on the game daily since 2012 and I share it with my friend Kyle Perkins. He helped with designing the levels and he also made the music. That was really nice of him as I actually know almost every level due to my level design. Check out his SoundCloud account for a few songs I play along to while playing this great game.

Cascade Cafe For PC

An immersive coffee-themed virtual reality game where the player is drawn into a coffee shop via the power of the Oculus Rift. They are tasked to prepare coffee for the customers using a variety of coffee machines. The game itself is free to play and the story-line isn't spoiled either. Although from the looks of it, the coffee shop can be a dangerous place to work. I also noticed they didn't mention what happens if you die. Since the game is free, the options you have to spend money are pretty much everything and nothing. The main store will allow you to get pretty much everything else (couch, coffee, game, headset, t-shirt, bowtie, and more) and will also let you upgrade the coffee bar area to make it more coffee themed. But if you go beyond the store and into the weird-e-tarian creepy real world, you can go to a hypermarket, grocery store, a stationary store, clothing store, a cellphone store, and more. The more unusual the location, the less you will have to spend money. Now you have a few different ways of upgrading the coffee machines and making coffee. You can get nice looking coffee machines with nice looking touch screens to use while making coffee. This is where you'll be spending most of your time. But if you'd like to spend some money, you can also get a coffee grinder which will produce better tasting coffee. Having a coffee grinder also helps upgrade your coffee machines. If you need money for anything more than the store, you can go and sell coffee for profit and cut out all of the people who "designated" how much you would make per day. But it seems to be in the game that if you do this, the people will hate you and the places will start to shut down. What the game has been designed to be: As I mentioned earlier, it is a free to play game (which it wasn't at first) A coffee-based game It has not been spoiled Cons: There's a lot of things to keep track of in the real world. You'll have to make coffee to keep the store going. It's free to play (which means you can only spend money) You won't be made to like coffee What I hope to accomplish: If you're reading this, that means you have an interest in Coffee. Maybe you went to a coffee shop every day for a couple of years. Maybe you d41b202975
