* Tutorials and videos: At the time of this writing, the site ``www.videoshowcase.com`` has an extensive library of video tutorials and lessons on Adobe Photoshop. There are dozens of free programs on the Internet that will train you in Photoshop, including basic tutorials and the learning features of the program. * Books: There are literally hundreds of books that teach you Photoshop. Most are over $100 and out of reach for the average graphic designer; however, there are many free tutorials and a few really good books on the market. * Training DVDs: If you're serious about mastering Photoshop, you can invest in training from Adobe's Creative Suite 2 suite of programs. * DVDs: The majority of graphic designers are fortunate enough to have a DVD training program or two at their disposal. Once you've mastered the basics and want to advance your skills, you'll need training DVDs. All these training programs (and more) are available on the Internet as well. ## Starting out with the Basics When it comes to creating your first ever image manipulation project, you'll most likely want to start with a fairly simple image. The most basic tool in Photoshop, the Pen tool, enables you to draw freehand circles and paths on any new layer. Figure 6-8 shows a simple image that's been opened in Photoshop. Follow these steps to get started with the basic manipulation of this image: 1. In the New document palette, click the file icon and open your image. The dialog box appears, as shown in Figure 6-9. 2. Click the Open button to open the image. The file opens in Photoshop. You'll see an icon in the upper-left corner of the window, as shown in Figure 6-10. If you didn't create a new document, the icon will be on the lower-left corner of the window. 3. Click the Pen tool (it looks like a stylus), as shown in the figure. The Pen tool is the first item that you use when you create a new document. 4. Draw a circle and use the Selection tool (A) to move it to the lower-left side of the image. The Pen tool is available on every tool pallet. (It's the long stylus-like tool at the very end of the tool box.) After you draw

A real-time solution for Mac Feel free to use the list I've made above in order of preference. Just copy the HTML code for a printable list of desktop wallpapers. How to download the desktop wallpapers There is a folder named 'wallpaper' in the 'Downloads' folder of your Mac. Copy it to a portable drive. If you want to sync the folder with an online account, you can: Download the 'wallpaper' folder from the website to your computer. You will need to select the 'Applications' folder and paste it into your 'Downloads' folder. Then you can open the folder with your Mac browser and check the sync status. Find the 'wallpaper' folder in the Downloads folder of your Mac. If you can't find it, do this: Open a Finder window and press 'Command+G'. Type 'wallpaper' and press 'Enter'. Select 'wallpaper' and press 'Command+Enter'. If it's still not there, select 'Downloads' and press 'Command+Shift+G'. Type 'wallpaper' and press 'Enter'. Select 'wallpaper' and press 'Command+Enter'. Mac OS Windows When the 'wallpaper' folder is synced with an online account, it will appear in the list of downloads in your desktop browser. Set as desktop wallpaper To set a wallpaper, right-click on an empty area of the desktop and choose 'Set Desktop Picture' from the shortcut menu. Alternatively, press 'Command+Spacebar+' (or 'Win+Spacebar+') and enter 'Wallpaper' from the drop-down list. Adobe Photoshop Open the images you want to use for the desktop wallpaper. Right-click on an empty area of the desktop and choose 'Set Desktop Picture'. Open the images in Photoshop and save them in the 'Wallpaper' folder in the 'Downloads' folder of the hard drive. View and modify images A handy trick to crop and resize images is to drag the image with the mouse while holding down the Option (or Ctrl) key and then release it. This will apply the crop and resizing commands, respectively. The same trick can be used to invert the colors of images. Right-click the image and choose 'Invert'. This will flip each color component of the image. 9b3c6dd9d5

Friday, October 26, 2012 A beautiful new range of sustainable materials will be launched in Green 2 Market on Saturday 8th November. The launch, which will be attended by Michael Greaney, Product Development Director and Alison Armstrong, Communication Manager, Forest & Bird will be held at 2:00 pm. The new collection, comprising of functional and environmentally friendly products, is inspired by the rich and diverse landscapes and habitats of New Zealand and the Pacific. Made from locally sourced sustainable material, the collection includes four different insulated glass panels and two distinct doors. The new window range will be available in two styles – Biome and Tropical Gardens. Under the Biome collection, the glass will give a more open and light filled look, while the Tropical Gardens will feature the more opaque window glass. Both products will be packaged with a recycled liner board and will be available in a hard board packaging for ease of transportation. The collection of insulated window and door solutions are currently being produced by two long established window and door suppliers in New Zealand. These suppliers, Verga and Allied Glass, are in the process of applying for approval from the New Zealand Competent Authority for the Occupied and Unoccupied Markets for the collection. Michael Greaney, Product Development Director for Forest & Bird, commented on the collection, "The success of the collection is strongly linked to it's design. We chose to keep it simple with no additional tools or extraneous pieces of infrastructure. Our team and product developers have worked closely with the glass manufacturers and the aim was to create a balance between raw materials and function. "The collection is a great addition to the range of sustainable products we offer. The hardboard packaging is versatile and can be used in a number of different ways, enhancing the customer experience." Alison Armstrong, Communication Manager for Forest & Bird, added, "In addition to the beautiful and innovative use of sustainable building materials, the savings achieved from the use of recycled glass liner board will go back into education, conservation and land based learning projects for New Zealand children." The collection of practical and high quality door and window solutions are available to wholesale businesses and builders nationwide.
