* Adobe Photoshop Elements (formerly Adobe Photo Manager) is a free program that lets you do most of the same things you can do in Photoshop, although with a simpler user interface and other limitations. It is designed specifically for amateur and small-business users, and it's aimed at the CD-ROM version market rather than the online version. * Adobe Photoshop Lightroom is a free program that enables you to organize, edit, and publish your digital images. It allows you to adjust and fine-tune images in a rich media editing environment. It stores adjustments from the last image you worked on. It is available for the Web, the Macintosh, Windows, mobile devices, and the iPad. * Adobe Photoshop for iPad is a free application that allows you to edit and combine up to four digital images in either portrait or landscape mode, and it supports photo editing tools and adjustable filters and adjustments. It also lets you share your images to Facebook, Twitter, or other social sites. * Adobe Photoshop Express is a free application that enables users to edit and share photos directly from the device. It has fewer features than the other desktop programs, but it is available for the Web, the iPhone, iPod Touch, iPad, Kindle, and Android. ## Other Photo Programs The following programs are also used in digital photo editing. * Apple iPhoto is a basic, straightforward, and reliable application. It enables you to organize and edit digital photos on the Mac. It is fairly limited, and it's only available for the Mac. * Adobe Photoshop Express is a free program that enables you to edit and share photos directly from the device. Q: using ftp_get with a server that doesn't support passive mode I'm trying to use ftp_get to download a file from a server that doesn't support passive mode. The problem is ftp_get always wait until file is downloaded - it doesn't say "connection closed" and all the time I must press redo the whole downloading process.

$file = ""; if (!$ftp = @ftp_connect('example.com')) { die('Could not connect to '.$ftp_server.', '.$ftp_server_port.', '.$ftp_error); } if (!@ftp_login($ftp, 'username', 'password')) { die('Could not login to '.$ftp_server.', '.$ftp_server_port.', '.$ftp_error); } $get = @ftp_get($ftp, $file, $file); if (false === $get) { die('Could not download file from '.$ftp_server.', '.$ftp_server_port.', '.$ftp_error); } print_r($get); A: $ftp_get($ftp, $file, $file);

This will try to open the file on the remote server and write the data to it instead. This means the remote server will need to have a local copy of the file available, so it won't work if the remote server does not support passive mode. The login() function will have the same problem. The remote server needs a copy of the username and password to login, so this will not work. Even if the remote server allows one to login, it may have limited or no connectivity. The only way for the remote server to allow a login would be if it supports PASV mode. The 1990s have become a goldmine of moral dilemmas for our generation. We're blessed with so many choices. The world is our oyster. And our moral compass! It's no wonder that throughout the 90s, a decade overloaded with consumerism and choice, we're all feeling a little lost. But wait! What

92 B.R. 614 (1988) In re PAUL S. STARKE LIFE INSURANCE CO., Debtor. Bankruptcy No. 6-87-00693. United States Bankruptcy Court, W.D. Texas, Austin Division. January 26, 1988. *615 Richard A. Langford, Goldstein & Price, Austin, Tex., for debtor. Timothy W. Gomel, Ramey, Flock, Hutchins, Jeffus & MacKay, Tyler, Tex., for Baptist Memorial.

MEMORANDUM OPINION AND ORDER JOHN H. JACOBS, Chief Judge. On March 24, 1987, the above-styled case came on for a hearing on the application of Paul S. Starke Life Insurance Company ("the debtor" or "the company") for permission to retain its current attorneys, Goldstein & Price ("Goldstein & Price"), to represent the debtor in its Chapter 11 case. C. Langford Hicks, Jr., Esquire, was retained by Goldstein & Price as the debtor's special counsel. The Court has not had an opportunity to hear a description of the services rendered by the debtor's special counsel and finds that the services rendered were ordinary services incident to the operation of the debtor's business. The Court finds that the debtor's special counsel rendered his services as a member of the debtor's management committee. Therefore, the debtor's special counsel is a professional person under § 327 of the Code.[1]

DISCUSSION 11 U.S.C. § 327(a) states in relevant part: "Except as otherwise provided in this section, the trustee, with the court's approval, may employ one or more attorneys, accountants, appraisers, auctioneers, or other professional persons, that do not hold or represent an interest adverse to the estate, and that are disinterested persons, to represent or assist the trustee in carrying out the trustee's duties under this title." 11 U.S.C. § 327(a) thus provides that a trustee may employ, with court approval, any person that does not represent an adverse interest. The Trustee may then "operate his own business in the ordinary course" on behalf of the estate. Id. The legislative history of § 327(a) states that: "The House amendment differs from the Senate amendment in that it specifically permits the trustee to engage in limited business activities, while
