If youve already racked up $10 in promo credit for the current promo and then received the codes promotion, you'll want to spend that portion of the promo code quickly, as it may not be applicable to your account next month. If it is, and youre looking to spend the balance of the promo, you'll need to go to Promotions and offers and create a new promotion, then enter the promo code. You can only receive one promo code with your account, but you can set up promo codes for multiple campaigns. For example, if a campaign has a promo code that applies to a specific offer or an ad group, you can select the offer or ad group and create a new promo code for that campaign. Click Add promo code, then enter the promo code. Should you wish to apply credit for an older sale, or should you wish to refund a sale, or generate more credit for an existing promotion, you can, by going to Accounts and then Promotions and offers, and generating a new promotion and entering the promo code. If you've noticed that in a short period of time, your promo codes are no longer active, it's time to check your Expiration date. Go to Promotions and offers and select the promo to check its expiration date. If your expiration date has passed, then all your promo code was spent, and you can no longer use the promo code or use any portion of it to generate more promo code. If your promo codes promotion is for something like an ad group, that can be much more profitable than others, you could use your promo code to generate more credit for a campaign, even if it wont benefit you right now.
